

Mortgage demonstration corpus

Combined fictional reference documents

This PDF combines the Markdown files in this directory in alphabetical filename order. All content is fictional and for demonstration purposes only.

Gonzap Home Finance — Affordability Review Playbook

Document status: Fictional demonstration guidance. Not a real lender policy or lending advice.

Illustrative review flags

Escalate the application for enhanced review when one or more of the following applies:

- LTV is greater than 85%;
- LTI is greater than 4.00, especially where contract or variable income is used;
- committed expenditure is high relative to verified income;
- there are dependants or a foreseeable household-cost change that could reduce resilience;
- the evidence needed to support income continuity is incomplete.

Review outcome language

Use neutral, non-decisive language: within the illustrative threshold, requires enhanced review, evidence required, or outside the illustrative threshold. Do not say an application is approved or declined. A human reviewer must consider the complete application, evidence, and applicable obligations.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_001

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Leeds. The application states permanent employment, verified annual salary of £62,000, no other income, £320 monthly committed expenditure, no dependants, a £320,000 property value, and a £256,000 requested loan over 30 years.

The pack records that independent salary evidence is present. The stated LTV is 80%. No enhanced evidence route is indicated in this illustrative pack.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_002

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Leeds. The application states permanent employment, £48,000 verified annual salary, £4,000 verified other income, £610 monthly committed expenditure, one dependant, a £285,000 property value, and a £242,250 requested loan over 30 years.

The stated LTV is 85%. Salary and other-income evidence are recorded as present. The reviewer should consider the dependant and committed expenditure in the affordability assessment.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_003

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Remortgage in Bristol. The application states fixed-term contract employment, £76,000 verified annual salary, £980 monthly committed expenditure, two dependants, a £475,000 property value, and a £332,500 requested loan over 25 years.

Current-contract evidence is recorded as present. Contract-continuity evidence requires review. The stated LTV is 70%, so the review focus is income continuity and household resilience rather than deposit size.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_004

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Manchester. The application states self-employment, £54,000 verified annual income, £6,000 verified other income, £450 monthly committed expenditure, one dependant, a £350,000 property value, and a £297,500 requested loan over 30 years.

The stated LTV is 85%. The pack records that representative-period self-employed income evidence is required before a reviewer can rely on the income.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_005

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Birmingham. The application states permanent employment, £39,500 verified annual salary, £770 monthly committed expenditure, no dependants, a £265,000 property value, and a £238,500 requested loan over 30 years.

The stated LTV is 90%. Salary evidence is present. The pack calls for enhanced review because both high LTV and committed expenditure may affect resilience.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_006

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Remortgage in Leeds. The application states permanent employment, £88,000 verified annual salary, £12,000 verified other income, £420 monthly committed expenditure, three dependants, a £520,000 property value, and a £338,000 requested loan over 25 years.

The stated LTV is 65%. Evidence is recorded as present. The assessment should nevertheless account for household costs and three dependants at the stressed rate.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_007

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Bristol. The application states fixed-term contract employment, £51,000 verified annual salary, £890 monthly committed expenditure, one dependant, a £410,000 property value, and a £369,000 requested loan over 30 years.

The stated LTV is 90%. Current-contract evidence is present, but the pack requires review of contract continuity, affordability resilience, and deposit source before any outcome can be recorded.

Application Pack — MORTGAGOR_008

Synthetic identifier only. This fictional pack contains no PII and is not a lending decision.

Purchase in Manchester. The application states permanent employment, £72,000 verified annual salary, £260 monthly committed expenditure, no dependants, a £390,000 property value, and a £273,000 requested loan over 25 years.

The stated LTV is 70%. Independent salary evidence is present. No enhanced evidence route is indicated in this illustrative pack.

Gonzap Home Finance — Company Overview

Document status: Fictional demonstration material. Gonzap Home Finance is not a real lender, and this document is not lending advice.

Purpose

Gonzap Home Finance is a fictional residential mortgage lender used to demonstrate how application data and policy documents can support a mortgage-review conversation. The demonstration covers purchase and remortgage applications for residential properties.

Illustrative lending approach

The demonstration considers capital-and-interest mortgages across a range of terms and product rates. Its review process brings together verified income, committed expenditure, household expenditure, dependants, property value, requested loan amount, loan-to-value (LTV), and loan-to-income (LTI).

Affordability is considered separately from the property value or deposit. The review also considers a stressed monthly mortgage payment and any material changes that could affect a customer's ability to repay.

Income and evidence

Gonzap Home Finance may consider permanent employment, fixed-term contract income, self-employed income, and other evidenced income. Income must be independently evidenced and assessed for sustainability. Where income is variable or continuity is relevant, the review may require additional evidence.

Review outcomes

The corpus supports illustrative policy screening only. It can identify whether an application is within an illustrative threshold, requires enhanced review, needs evidence, or is outside an illustrative threshold. It does not approve or decline an application; a human reviewer must consider the complete application, supporting evidence, and applicable obligations.

Related demonstration documents

- Residential lending criteria explains the illustrative LTV, LTI, affordability, and employment considerations.
- Income Evidence Standard describes the evidence expected for different income types.
- Affordability Review Playbook identifies circumstances that require enhanced review and the language used to describe an outcome.

Gonzap Home Finance — Income Evidence Standard

Document status: Fictional demonstration policy. Not a real lender policy or lending advice.

Evidence expectations

Use evidence proportionate to the income being relied on. The demonstration application packs state only that evidence is present or requires review; they do not include documents, names, account numbers, payroll references, or other personal data.

- Permanent employed: verify basic salary using independent evidence covering a recent period.
- Fixed-term contract: verify current contract end date, role continuity, and evidence of prior contract history where income continuity is relevant.
- Self-employed: review independently prepared income evidence over a representative period and investigate material year-to-year movements.
- Other income: include only income that is independently evidenced and considered sustainable.

Expenditure and resilience

Capture monthly committed credit payments, household expenditure, dependants, and known future changes. The illustrative stress rate is 7.00%. A high-LTV case, a contract-income case, or a case with elevated committed expenditure may require enhanced review even if it is within an income multiple.

Gonzap Home Finance — Residential lending criteria

Document status: Fictional demonstration policy. Not a real lender policy or lending advice.

Purpose and scope

This policy describes the illustrative first-line screen for capital-and-interest residential purchase and remortgage applications. It supports a review conversation; it does not produce an approval or decline.

Core screening measures

- The illustrative maximum loan-to-value (LTV) is 90%. Applications above 85% LTV require a documented review of affordability resilience and deposit source.
- The illustrative maximum loan-to-income (LTI) is 4.50 times total verified annual income. This is a portfolio-screening cap, not a substitute for an affordability assessment.
- The affordability assessment considers verified income, committed expenditure, essential household expenditure, dependants, and a stressed monthly mortgage payment at a 7.00% annual rate.
- A reviewer must confirm that any material income variation, expected expense change, or property-specific cost is understood before an outcome is recorded.

Employment and income

Permanent employment may use evidenced basic salary. Variable income may be considered only when evidence demonstrates a sustainable pattern. Fixed-term contract income requires evidence of the current contract and continuity of employment. Self-employed income requires the evidence described in the Income Evidence Standard.

Important limitation

The property value, deposit, LTV, or expected house-price movement must not be used as evidence that repayments are affordable. A complete assessment needs evidence and human review.